

HedgeArena Code of Conduct

As of: 21 May 2026

HedgeArena thrives on fair play and respectful interaction. This Code of Conduct applies to all users and to all areas of HedgeArena, in particular duels, the chat, question suggestions, ratings, profiles and leaderboards. It forms part of the Terms of Use.

I. Fair play

Compete in duels with your own knowledge. Any behavior that undermines fair competition is not allowed, in particular:

- the use of bots, scripts, automation or other technical aids
- exploiting errors, gaps or weaknesses of the service
- manipulating duels, results, skill rating, achievements or leaderboards
- colluding with others to distort results or placements
- creating or using multiple accounts to gain an advantage

II. Account and identity

Only one account per person is permitted. Your information at registration and in your profile must be true. Impersonating another identity and passing on, selling or transferring an account are not allowed.

III. Respectful interaction

Treat other users decently. In the in-duel chat and in all other texts, the following are not allowed in particular: insults, harassment, threats, hate and discrimination, sexually intrusive remarks, publishing others' personal information, and spam and advertising. The chat serves the game and not the distribution of others' or unlawful content.

IV. Question suggestions and feedback

If you submit questions or feedback, they must be relevant and lawful. Submit only content to which you hold the necessary rights; in particular, do not copy protected texts from teaching materials, commentaries or exams verbatim. Content that is insulting, misleading or unlawful is not allowed. Whether a suggestion is included in the question pool is at the operator's discretion.

V. Protecting the platform

The following are not allowed: automated scraping of data, reverse engineering of the software beyond the scope mandatorily permitted by law, circumventing security or access mechanisms, overloading the infrastructure, and any attempt to access systems or other people's accounts without authorization.

VI. Reporting problems and breaches

If you come across an error, a security vulnerability or a breach of these rules, do not exploit it but report it to info@hedgearena.ch.

VII. Enforcement and measures

Whether behavior breaches these rules is assessed by the operator. In the event of a breach or suspected breach, the operator may, at its discretion and without an obligation to give reasons, in particular warn, remove content and question suggestions, reset scores, skill rating, achievements and placements, exclude from leaderboards, temporarily suspend an account or permanently exclude it, and refuse re-registration. The operator is not obliged to monitor content or behavior but is entitled to do so. No claim to compensation arises from a measure. Further legal steps remain reserved.

Changes to this Code of Conduct

The operator may adapt this Code of Conduct at any time. The version published in the app and on hedgearena.ch applies. The lists in this Code of Conduct give examples and are not exhaustive.